Class Day Exercises

WELCOME

As president of the Class of 1937 I welcome you, who are our friends to our Class Day Exercises.

It is to you, whom we owe our success and happiness. Without your skillful guidance we might never have reached our goal.

And so we are glad to have you here today to view the climax of our four years of happy memories.

Frederick Dalton—President

CLASS HISTORY

I.

“Hail, hail, the gang’s all here” — —

With fear in their hearts the Class of 1937 climbed the Pinkerton hill in the fall of 1933. The boys had not been in the Old Building five minutes before they emerged into the sun-light with dripping heads. Shortly too, the girls were rambling around as painted Indians. But we all had to learn the ropes and nobody minded this gentle treatment; nor later when the Seniors welcomed us at the reception. What delightful babies we made with our bibs and bonnets. Green they were, too, and even the carriage, in which a Senior member pushed tall Oscar York and tiny Martha Clark.

Soon bonnets and bibs were put to one side and we assumed proper dignity to elect our officers: Laughing Frederick Draper, president; Jean Barrington, vice-president; Josephine McGauley, secretary; and Mary Abigail (better known as Gail) Clark, treasurer, with Mr. Harriman and Miss Flanders as advisers to guide us through the Freshman year.

For colors we united Ulster and the Irish Free State and chose green and orange. With banners and ribbons, emblems of our advancement toward maturity, we prepared for graduation; and with due awe and reverence, we watched the commencement exercises, little dreaming that in such a short time we too, would be graduating.

II.

“Never mind the weather, here we are together” — —

As we climbed the stairs as Sophomores, to room eight, we found Mr. Wheelock in the adviser’s chair. Since then he has been our constant chaperon and companion. Our first original project with which he helped us much, was a Sophomore year book, a lively panorama of pictures and puns, prose and poetry, extracts from every occurrence of the year. On the first page we inscribed the names of the class officers: Robert Hanf, president; Rita Riley, vice-president; Marion Morrison, secretary; and Gail Clark again the watch dog of our treasury.

In October we planned and sponsored a Halloween party that was a success. Everyone was happy, the music good, and the food as tasty as one could wish. But hark? an unsolved mystery: where did that jug of cider go?

THE PINKERTON CRITIC

---

In dramatics the class excelled with two plays "Tried for Treason" and "Little Women." These two were early evidences of what was to come in class plays later on. Both were adapted from stories and were excellently dramatized by our class members.

One of the closing events of the year was the trip of the Latin Club to Boston, chaperoned by Miss Merriam. The Museum of Fine Arts was thoroughly enjoyed by every member. Rumor has it, Ruth Spear fell in love with Rameses II.

III.

"Hail, hail, the gang's all here" —

In the fall of 1935 we started the third lap of our journey. As officers we re-elected Robert Hanf, president; Isabelle Senecal, vice-president; Marion Morrison, secretary; Gail Clark, treasurer.

The Junior Sleigh Ride was a strange event because to be different, we really went in sleighs. The picture of Mr. Wheelock wrapped in a huge coat, cuddled up in one corner of the sleigh, trying to keep warm, will always remain in our memories.

For our play we presented "The Queen's Husband" with an all star cast headed by Frederick Draper and Marion Morrison. Which was the husband?

With Roland Russell playing for a colorful crowd of dancers, the Class of 1937 entertained the School at its successful Prom. In a hall gaily decorated with pink hearts and white streamers, class room scholars made merry throughout the evening.

The dramatic record of our class has not been broken. While old talent has been developed, new talent has been discovered. In the interclass one act play tournament we were victorious. The play "Elmer," was well chosen and well cast. Betty Gundell as "Maudy," won the hearty approval of her audience. We wonder if Betty wasn't a southerner once.

IV.

"Let the trouble start right now" —

We started our Senior year with Senior responsibilities and privileges.

The year began with a delightful corn roast at Angle Pond. It was a corn roast but no one had the courage to eat the corn.

A gypsy cairn was built with a message for all other senior classes to find and read in the years to come.

It did not seem possible that we were already giving the reception to the Freshmen but finally ours was the privilege to initiate the new classes within the Academy portals.

Events fell thick and fast and before we were settled to the routine of school life, we had elected our officers. In a land-slide Frederick Dalton was elected president with Marjorie Clark, vice-president; Rita Riley, secretary and once more, Gail Clark, treasurer.

In January, before a full house, the Seniors presented "Grumpy." Ever more amusing than the play, it is rumored, were the antics of the director as seen in a mirror on the stage.

Lack of snow did not interfere with the Seniors for instead of the sleigh ride, we had a "frolic" at the Grange Hall in Londonderry. Trust the Seniors to come through in a pinch!

Then in earnestness the class made plans for graduation, and the final events before commencement.

For rings we chose those with the Pinkerton Tower engraved upon them. For our photographer, Vantine was again chosen and everyone was very much pleased with his pictures.

In April graduation honors were announced. Mary Abigail (Gail) Clark as Valedictorian, Norton Russell Bagley, Salutatorian, and Marjorie Hunt Clark, third honor.

After a four battle, the class of '37 agreed that New York would be our destination for the class trip. The problem of chaperons came next. Of course our adviser, Mr. Wheelock continued his duties as our guide on the straight and narrow path. This time however his assistant proved to be Miss Billings, our unanimous choice.

In a very elated frame of mind we boarded the bus at noon on the 21st of May. We made the lives of the inhabitants of various cities through which we passed most enjoyable by the rendering of our songs and cheers.

After galavanting around the Bay State Capital for several hours we went aboard the boat. Great was the commotion, when we discovered that the closets to which they assigned us contained beds, thus making them staterooms.

Several of our slightly green passengers rented the portion of the rail where they thought they would spend much of their valuable time, while others covered every nook and corner of the boat. There are no words to describe that first night on board — but it will haunt our memories forever.

The early morning found many of us on the bow of the boat, looking for the skyline of New York with anticipation. As soon as we docked, we started that well known occupation, "pounding the pavement." This last mentioned item caused slippers to be hurriedly donned as soon as we entered the hotel.

Many were bewildered at the array of silver in the dining room, and found difficulty in timing the meal so that they could eat their ice cream with only one spoon.

Some of the students, looking forward to being future home makers, stacked up with linen and silverware.

The elevator operator was in a state of utter bewilderment most of the time. And who could blame her,—up please, down please,—Fifth floor please,—up please, down please — —

Although we had comfortable beds at the hotel, many did not get acquainted with them, for night life in New York was too absorbing.

Sunday morning the heathens visited the Bronx Zoo, while the religious found time to attend their respective churches.

Thunder storms were predicted for the trip home and with sinking hearts and stomachs we boarded the S. S. New York. The rail was well populated this trip because of the rough sea. The dignified students of Pinkerton Academy staggered about in a most unseamanlike manner.

During a portion of the evening our talented Fraternity Four and our two tap dancers, Miss Beauchamp and Mr. Dalton entertained the passengers in the dance salon.

Several of the young men believed the statement that, "variety is the spice of life," and found stenographers and telephone operators very amusing

The crowning point of the night or the morning was the discovery of Gerry Westgates new and original sleeping quarters. Lacking cooperation on the part of her bunk mates, Gerry was forced to sleep in the lounge. Miss Billings' humorous epitaph pinned on the pillow beside Gerry—plus the amusing spectacle of the sleeping beauty, Gerry herself, kept the porters and passengers who were up, in a more than hilarious mood.

After three strenuous evenings many managed to get up just as the boat docked at the pier in Boston. We are still wondering why Mr. Wheelock was late.

The ride home on the bus was much quieter than the ride down, even though we did let the Academy know we were coming.

Seriously, however, we had a grand trip and it was enjoyed by all. Our thanks and appreciation go out to you, Mr. Bell, and the school for enabling us to take advantage of a trip which we will never, never forget.

Everyone of the Seniors went back to childhood days for their "kid party." How cute everyone looked but we enjoyed the Faculty in their costumes too.

What a change! As solemn and dignified Seniors in our caps and gowns, we attended the Baccalaureate Services.

Class Day came and went. With hearts filled with yearning, we prepared for the Commencement Exercises.

We have reached our goal now. With graduation we enter into hard realms of life and abandon the carefree days of childhood.

All hail to Pinkerton—hail and farewell.

Norton Bagley
Robert Tangney

CLASS ATHLETICS

We, the Class of 1937, wish to express our appreciation and gratitude to Mr. Bell, Coach Metcalf, Coach Clark, and to all others who helped us in our four years of activity in sports.

Our Freshman Year, we, the boys, were defeated by a more experienced Sophomore team in football, but we came back to win in baseball, which victory started our onward and upward progress.

THE PINKERTON CRITIC

The record that we made our Sophomore Year was evidence enough that we were still on our way. We were inter-class champions in football and baseball.

In our Junior Year (in evidence of our strength) the class games in football and baseball were stopped.

We also took part in the inter-class track meets, winning from the Sophomores our Freshman Year and winning one in our Junior Year.

Our Senior Year was a grand and glorious one. The Seniors were well represented on the Only Undefeated and Untied Football Team Pinkerton ever produced. The Senior members of that team were Captain "Red" Gurley, "Bill" Torrey, Earl Warren, Edward Allgeyer, John Devine, Vaughn Stevens, Paul Blanchard, Frederick Draper, and Mgr. "Pete" Young.

We were also indoor Volley Ball champions, and runners-up of indoor Baseball.

The Class was well represented on the Varsity Basketball Team with Captain Frederick Draper, "Bill" Torrey, "Red" Gurley, and "Andy" Masellis.

Two-thirds of the Baseball Team was made up of Seniors, "old reliables," Captain "Bill" Torrey, "Red" Gurley, Earl Warren, Frederick Draper, "Andy" Masellis, and John Devine.

During our four years in Pinkerton, the school presented the boys a total of 45 major letters and one set of numerals.

Here are the statistics:

Name	Baseball	Basketball	Football
Allgeyer		4 Mgr.	4
Blanchard			4
Devine	3-4		4
Dexter		3 Mgr.
Draper	3-4	3-4 Capt. 4	3-4
Gurley	2-3-4	2-3-4	2-3-4 Capt. 3-4
Masellis	2-3-4	3-4	3
Stevens			4
Smith	3 Mgr.
Warren	2-3-4 Capt. 3		2-3-4
Young			4 Mgr.
Torrey	2-3-4 Capt. 4	3-4	2-3-4

The girls wish to express their sincere appreciation to Mr. Bell, Miss Carpenter, and Miss Aldrich for their time spent and for the fine spirit with which they have inspired us.

During our four years here the girls' interest in athletics has increased a great deal and we have endeavored to better the standard of girls' athletics.

It took the girls' basketball team two years to get their experience, but the third year we came out victorious and had the honor of winning the basketball trophy. In baseball we have excelled for the past four years. Although we have never won honors in hockey, we have placed many girls on the varsity and have been runners-up in class games. Recreation badges have been won by Althea Sweet, Lucille Parker, Jean Hubbard, Amelia Romeiko, Marion Morrison, and Ruth Corliss.

---

Six of our members have received Pinkerton Letters. These letters are awarded on a point system and the girls have worked hard and faithfully for them. Those girls who have received letters are: A. Romeiko, A. Sweet, M. Morrison, L. Parker, G. Clark, and R. Corliss.

It is with regret that we leave behind us our part in Pinkerton Athletics, but we feel sure that we have gained here a foundation which will always be useful to us.

Frederick Draper

CLASS GIFTS

EDWARD ALLGEYER—

Eddie, while wandering around the town, we found this (Ladd)er. There is no one to claim it. So, we thought you would like it.

NORTON BAGLEY—

Rumor has it that you are inexperienced with the dial system of telephoning. Maybe you can practice up with this.

JEAN BARRINGTON—

Well, I wonder who this is for! If it isn't a Howard-Johnson sign! It must be for you, Jeanie!

LORRAINE BEAUCHAMP—

Heres a one way-ticket to Lawrence, Lorraine We've done our part, now it's up to him. Remember, no chewing gum on the bus.

MR. BELL—

Mr. Bell, this little notebook is marked "Personal," it must be for you but "nothing personal."

PAUL BLANCHARD—

Just in case your Electrolux vacuum cleaner breaks down, we are going to give you this broom.

WALTER BOROWSKI—

Walt, now that you are a State farmer, we give you this tractor to use on your big farm.

CLEMENT BOULANGER—

Clem, here is a Waltham watch all your own. Maybe it has an alarm that could be set at 6:00 A. M. Anyway it will help you to be on time, I'm sure.

JOHN DEVINE—

Divie, a new baseball bat. We hope you do as well with this one as you did with the old one.

ROY DEXTER—

Roy, you have worked so hard oiling machines for Miss Brackett, that we thought you would appreciate this little oil can as a reminder.

MISS NORTON—

This railroad ticket reads "Somewhere in the West." It must be for you, Miss Norton.

THE PINKERTON CRITIC

---

ALBERT DICK—

Al, we know you always have wanted to go into business for yourself. Here's a sign—"Second National Stores"—this may be the beginning of a big business career—who knows?

FREDERICK DRAPER—

You've done a pretty good job at mountain climbing and now you're at the top. Here's a net to catch you when you drop.

VIRGINIA ELA—

Knowing of your recent attack of the measles—we present you with this bottle of pills. The label says: "For the prevention of childish diseases."

DOROTHY FULLONTON—

A little Dutch boy from "Holland." He will keep you company, Dot, while you work.

OLIVE GARVIN—

This scholarship to New Hampshire University, we give to you, Olive. It's only for one year—but that's as long as you'll need it.

LLOYD GLIDDEN—

This map of the United States, you'll find useful when you take your trip to California.

MARJORIE CLARK—

This box of "Clay," although not a "ton," will afford you a great deal of amusement.

COACH CLARK—

Coach, here's a set of spark plugs for your car so it won't sputter and act balky as it did on the trip home from Durham.

MARTHA CLARK—

We all know of your ability in sewing; so we hope this sewing kit will be useful to you.

MARY A. CLARK—

Gail, here is a duster. Now you can be "orderly" too.

RUTH CORLISS—

We hear that you are the belle of Londonderry. Maybe this bell will give you some competition.

LILLA COTE—

Lilla, as we remember it, you and Emerson never agreed in spite of all of Miss Billings' arguments. Here's a copy of Emerson. Propinquity may help you to like him. Note the inscription on the fly leaf — — signed M. L. B.

MISS BRACKETT—

You are always looking for a pencil. Take this big one. It has a string tied on it and you can fasten it around your neck.

FREDERICK DALTON—

A new cross cut saw, who could this be for? It may help you Dick, as we hear you have turned out to be quite a "Sawyer."

RUTH DALTON—

A thermometer for you, Ruth. It may help you out taking those temperatures next year.

THE PINKERTON CRITIC

WOODROW GRANT—

For four years, Woodie, you've been trying to find a steady girl friend. Here she is! Take good care of her.

ELIZABETH GUNDELL—

This box of grease paint was sent to you from Cecile B. DeMille, who apparently has heard of your acting, to help you on your way.

HAROLD GURLEY—

This hand is called "An Aid to Hitch Hikers." Would it be of any use to you, Red?

ROBERT HANF—

Use this horn in future radio programs, Bob, instead of trying to yodel. It will be much easier on your vocal chords, and our ears.

MARION HOLM—

Here's a picture, Marion, of Robert Taylor, who, we understand, is your weakness. We're sure He'll be ever faithful.

MISS CARPENTER—

A frog for you—just because someone said you were afraid of them. But this one doesn't even croak.

THOMAS HOWARD—

During your four years at Pinkerton, we have noticed you have been rather mixed up as far as dates are concerned. Here is a package of "dated dates." We hope you won't get stuck on these.

JEAN HUBBARD—

This contract, for a position as a Librarian, now entitles you to spend more of your time at the library.

DORIS JOHNSON—

Doris, here is a little "home" all of your own. We know it could not be for anyone but you.

IRENE KEITH—

We understand that your childhood did not last long enough. Here's a baby's rattle, to amuse yourself when you feel the urge.

ANTHONY MASELLIS—

You believe in "Variety is the spice of life." This box of spices, symbolic of your philosophy of life, may keep you happy.

NORMA MCCOY—

Here is a little basket for you when you go to market. (Marcotte.)

JOSEPHINE MCGAULEY—

Josie, we have always understood that you never have had enough clothes to suit you. This book is full of them, and Shirley Temple styles at that.

JOSEPH MEAKIM—

Joe, as the quietest boy in the class, you deserve this whistle. Prepare us a little before hand so that when you do make a noise, we won't be surprised.

RHODA MITCHELL—

A little suitcase—the tag says Syracuse. It must be for you Rhoda — that's where you're going to college.

MARION MORRISON—

As a cheer leader, you weren't too bad — but this megaphone will enable you to be heard better when you begin — "Hep! Hep!"

THE PINKERTON CRITIC

---

DOROTHEA MYATT—

Some chocolate money wrapped in gold paper for our Senior Gold Digger.
Here's wishing you luck, Dot.

MRS. McMASTERS—

Your favorite word seems to be "quiet," and as you are a librarian, this book "All Quiet on the Western Front," seems most fitting.

STANLEY NICIEJEWSKI—

Your handwriting is very difficult to read; so here is a course in penmanship.
Practice hard, Stanley, so you will be able to endorse your Old Age Pension checks.

BERNICE NUTE—

A baton for you, Bernice. Some day you may be choir leader in the village church.

LUCILLE PARKER—

A ball of yarn for you, Lucille, to make your stories a little bit more colorful.

EVELYN RIDER—

We know your favorite color is red. With this can of paint you may paint everything red and be perpetually happy.

MISS ALDRICH—

We hear you are going to Texas. Here's a sombrero. Now you can ride the range like the grown up cowboys do.

RITA RILEY—

Here's a "sou'wester" for you, Rita. Keep it with you when you're with a "Gale."

AMELIA ROMEIKO—

We give you this first aid kit, Amelia, to enable you to mend all those bleeding hearts.

PAUL SMITH—

Here's a new truck for you, Paul. We're sorry we couldn't get the same model as your last one, but we think it'll do.

MR. GASKILL—

This can of paint will come in handy for someone — oh, yes, Mr. Gaskill, it's for you. Now you can paint that watch that has given you "up to the minute" service.

VAUGHN STEVENS—

Jack Benny's a violinist
So are you.
He struggled through the "Bee"
Now see what you can do.

ALTHEA SWEET—

For memories sake, Althea, here's a "Drip-o-later."

MARGARET TAINTOR—

Here's a "broken record," Margaret, to take the place of your bosom friend, Ruthie, while she's away at school.

MR. HARRIMAN—

Mr. Harriman, every time we go by your new house we see you working in the garden, so here is a hoe to keep you busy.

THE PINKERTON CRITIC

---

ROBERT TANGNEY—

A periscope for you, Tangney. Your nocturnal activities may find it helpful.

PRESCOTT TORREY—

This “teddy bear” will aid you in your career with the “Cubs.” Good luck to you always.

EARL WARREN—

A bottle of Witch “Hayes” el for you, Earl. It will be a comfort to your arms after a hard day in the game.

MISS BILLINGS—

Blow “up” patches! Who can they be for — Guess they must be yours, Miss Billings. In your extensive travels throughout the Dominion, you may find them helpful in more ways than one.

WILLIAM SMITH—

We know you like to dance. If you ever have trouble in finding a partner, and we doubt it, here’s a broom with which to dance.

RUTH SPEAR—

Here’s a turtle Freddy caught for you. We thought you’d like a namesake, Snapper.”

MISS ABBOTT—

These violets are for you, Miss Abbott. We wonder if you really are as demure as you appear to be.

GERALDINE WESTGATE—

While visiting in North Woodstock, we saw this book of “Skippy.” He is all yours — but we are sorry he’s not old enough to drive a Plymouth.

PETER YOUNG—

A balloon for you, “Pete.” You seem to be going up.

MR. RIDER—

This Junior G-Man’s Kit must be for you Mr. Rider, as you are the only officer of the law around. Look before you shoot!

MR. WHEELLOCK—

These peaches must be for you, for you need something feminine in your bachelor apartment.

MR. CONNER—

Mr. Conner, we understand you are an ex “B” man. You must miss them, so we will give you this bottle of honey.

Ruth Dalton

Lorraine Beauchamp

Rita Riley

Albert Dick

Harold Gurley

STATISTICS OF THE CLASS OF '37

Old thirty-seven’s fighting sons
Are bidding you adieu.
We never have liked partings,
But our four short years are through.

THE PINKERTON CRITIC

---

We're not what you'd call a small group
For we number fifty-five.
Our total age is 971 yrs. 2 mo. 2 days,
But we're still very much alive.
We have a weight of 7079 pounds —
A height of 298 feet 8 inches.
But you can easily account for this.
If you just glance through our pictures.
You'll have to agree that we are religious,
Our religions are of every denomination,
Fourteen Catholics, fifteen Baptists
And six go to the Congregational.
Eleven Methodists, five Episcopalians,
Presbyterian two,
And with us you will also find
One member of the Christian Missionary Alliance, too
Our eyes are of all varied hues —
Four hazel, seventeen brown, four gray,
Six green, one black and twenty-three blue.
Quite a variety I'd say.
Then our hair is another item,
Five blond, seven black, and two red.
Yes, I'm warning you there is quite a mixture,
With the ever popular brown on forty-one heads.
Then comes the question of nature,
With the rose our favorite flower.
Football for our favorite sport,
And "Boo! Hoo!" the song of the hour.
"Gone With the Wind," our favorite book
And it truly is a masterpiece,
For Miss Billings, our favorite teacher says
It is the best, to say the least.
Vaughn Stevens is our best looking fellow,
Jean Hubbard our prettiest girl,
And although they're not aware of it,
They keep us all in a whirl.
We'd go anywhere to see a movie
Providing it starred Robert Taylor,
And Claudette Colbert isn't too bad
For the majority voted for her.
Our best dressed girl is Marjorie Clark
A pretty little lass,
With "Dick" Dalton for the best dressed fellow
Of the entire Senior Class.
Our favorite food is still ice cream
A dish most all love well.
A tie between Sociology and English
For we think they both are swell.

THE PINKERTON CRITIC

---

Joseph Meakim, our quietest boy,
Is hardly ever heard.
Norma McCoy, the quietest girl,
Will seldom utter a word.
For best dancers we have chosen
Two that are hard to beat,
Marjorie Clark and William Smith
Seem to have the dancing feet.
Geraldine Westgate, our wittiest girl,
Keeps the class bubbling over with joy.
The male sex give as their contribution,
Peter Young, our wittiest boy.
Our shortest boy is Roy Dexter,
The shortest girl, Martha Clark,
She hasn't gotten very far as yet.
But someday she'll reach the mark
Our most popular boy is "Red" Gurley,
Who is a troubadour as well.
Amelia Romeiko, our most popular girl,
And one we all think is swell.
Miss Virginia Ela is
The Senior's youngest girl,
With Peter Young as her comrade
In the Senior's Statistical world.
Marion Morrison has the distinction
Of being the tallest girl in the class.
She plays hockey, baseball, and tennis
And is a regular all-'round lass.
Of course I hardly have to mention
The name of our tallest son,
For just one glance into our midst
Will tell you it's Peter Young.
The oldest fellow of the Senior Class,
Is our President, "Dick" Dalton.
He sure can make his two feet fly,
Our "Fred Astaire" of Pinkerton.
Of course you know what it's like in families,
One trying to get ahead of the other,
Well, that's the way with our oldest girl, Ruth Dalton
She tries to keep ahead of her brother.
And there you have it.
Can't you see the reason we are proud?
Our statistics certainly show
That we Seniors are a talented crowd.
And as we journey on in life,

CLASS PROPHECY

A class reunion is to be held in the near future. The characters are seated around a table checking the answers to the invitations.

Characters

Betty Gundell	Dorothea Myatt
Jean Barrington	Edward Allgeyer
Stanley Niciejewski )
Peter Young )	Just returning from world tour.

Allgeyer: Have you sent an invitation to Ruth Spear, Betty?

Gundell: Sure, and I think she sent a reply.

Barrington: Yes, she did. Here it is. She says it is impossible for her to come as she is very busy decorating the home of Mrs. Evelyn Rider McKinney.

Allgeyer: Well, what about Marion Morrison? Is she coming?

Gundell: I have just sent her an invitation so she has not had time to answer.

Myatt: She is ever so busy. I saw in the paper that she had endowed the Morse Museum at Warren, N. H.

Gundell: Where do I address Marjorie Clark's invitation?

Barrington: It's still Derry, Ross' Corner. Marge is President of the Derry Women's Club, you know.

Myatt: Well, tell me who is coming so that I can type the list.

Barrington: Here's a letter from Norma McCoy. She writes from Reno.

Reno, Nevada.

Dear Jean,

You know that I am divorcing Marcotte, and it will be utterly impossible for me to leave the proceedings. Give my regards to the rest of the class and accept my regrets.

Norma Marcotte.

Gundell: Does anyone know what became of Rita Riley?

Allgeyer: I remember her. She is teaching "Junior" stenography in Hesser's Business College.

Myatt: Ela says she will come if her duties as public elocutionist will let her. She volunteers to render a selection.

Barrington: Fullonton writes that she has arranged her vacation from her duties as secretary to Holland's Dry Cleaning Establishment, so that she can attend the reunion. By the way Eddie are you going to the dance tonight?

THE PINKERTON CRITIC

---

Allgeyer: Sure. I wouldn't miss Lorraine Beauchamp as "Blues" singer in Ed Harvey's Orchestra for anything.

Myatt: I noticed in Rhoda Mitchell's column in the "Star" that Irene Keith, the aviatrix, crashed into Walter Borowski's cow barn. How about some more names to type?

Gundell: (Reading Letter)

Detroit, Michigan

Dear Betty,

Thank you very much for the invitation to our class reunion but I shall be unable to attend, as the new Super Streamline Model of my Diesel Kiddy-Car, is just ready to go on the market.

Lloyd Glidden

Myatt: Business must be rolling.

Gundell: Here's another letter.

Hollywood, California

Dear Bet,

Business is at its peak and there is, therefore, so much demand for my beauty treatment that time won't permit my attendance at the reunion.

Marion Holm

Allgeyer: Business is certainly in the mud.

Barrington: Here's one from New York.

New York City, N. Y.

Dear Gang,

I will be delighted to come if I can arrange to have someone care for the Baby Clinic. I am looking forward to seeing the class.

Doris Johnson Holm

Allgeyer: I hear she is the President of the Baby Clinic there.

Myatt: I've got two or three letters here.

Wellesley, Mass.

Dear Dot,

Many thanks for your kind invitation but I fear I shall not be able to attend. I teach classes every day and have classes in "Marriage" each evening. My duties as Head Instructor make it inadvisable for me to leave, and I hope you will excuse me from the affair.

Gail Clark

Barrington: She wrote me that she is planning to marry next month. Another letter, Dot?

Myatt: This is from Ruth Corliss.

Indianapolis, Indiana

Dear Gang,

Having received your invitation, I will arrive at the specified time. I suppose you heard that I placed second in the Indianapolis 500 mile race, making myself the first woman to ever finish the course. I will arrive a day ahead of time and wonder if you will arrange my hotel accommodations.

Ruth Corliss

---

Gundell: She must have learned to drive after all.

Allgeyer: Here is one from Washington, D. C.

Dear Eddie,

It is with sincere regret that I cannot grace your reunion with my presence. I have a great opening in the business world as President of the Smithsonian Institute. Give my regards to everyone.

Norton Bagley

Myatt: Bagley sure is going places!

Barrington: Here are a few telegrams. This one is from Josephine McGauley.

Invented new reducing machine stop in the money stop will attend the reunion stop

McGauley

Here's one come collect! It's from Tom Howard!

Heavy loss in stock market stop sending telegram collect stop will attend reunion if bumming is good stop

Thomas Howard

Allgeyer: Boy, I'll collect that money from him when he gets here. Whom is the other one from?

Barrington: It's from Paul Smith in Kansas City.

Will arrive tomorrow stop look for my United Airline Plane stop

Paul Smith

Myatt: Oh, that's right. He's a pilot, isn't he? Why gang look! Here is a letter from the White House.

White House, Washington

Dear Class of 1937,

You have probably heard that the President's Banquet is to come off at the time of your reunion. As you know I am cook at the White House and will be unable to come. Roy Dexter asked me to tell you that he will have to attend to his position as body guard to the President. We both send our regrets.

Geraldine Westgate

Roy Dexter

Gundell: Just think! Two of our class in the White House.

Allgeyer: I have one from Durham, N. H. Don't tell me one of our class is still in N. H. U.

Durham, N. H.

Dear Eddie,

My home here in Durham is about decorated now, so I will be able to leave my husband and attend the reunion.

Olive Garvin Simpson

Barrington: You know, she always did like the Durham air, or was it the students?

Myatt: Here is a letter from the School of Dietetics in Boston.

THE PINKERTON CRITIC

---

Dear Dot,

It is with pleasure that we accept your invitation. I am sure that we will be able to attend.

Martha Clark

Bernice Nute

Gundell: They are still sticking together aren't they? Oh! I meant to tell you. Clement Boulanger wrote yesterday that he would be able to come and he is going to bring a model of the incubator he just invented.

Allgeyer: Yes and Andy Masellis is going to bring his accordion. He is in the latest Swing Band you know, and seems to be making good.

Barrington: Here is one from your side kick, Dot. It's from Lucille Parker.

Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Jean,

I have arranged to come to the reunion and will put on the same act that gave me the title of Roller Skating Queen. I am looking forward to seeing the gang.

Lucille Parker

Myatt: Did you know that Lilla Cote was running a girls' camp in Georgia? She says she will come. And say! Ruth Dalton was left a cool million by her first patient and has decided that nursing is fine!

Barrington: What is Dick Dalton doing now?

Gundell: Oh he's married you know. I have a letter from him right here.

Roanoke, Va.

Dear Friends,

Will take a plane to attend the reunion. I have been busy with the Dalton Men's Clothing Store, but business can take care of itself for a few days.

Dick Dalton

Allgeyer: Here comes a taxi. Why Grant is driving it.

Myatt: Didn't you know he was in the taxi business now?

Barrington: There is Young and Niciejewski with him. What do you know about that? They have been traveling.

Gundell: (General hellos) Did you hear that the last baseball season made Johnny Devine "Home Run King"?

Young: Good for Divie! We sure have a lot of our class scattered all over the world.

Barrington: What are we going to feed the class, Eddie?

Allgeyer: Oh, we're getting the food from Albert Dick's Second National Stores.

Myatt: And the entertainment?

Gundell: Many of the gang have already volunteered their services. The Fraternity Four are going to get away after their broadcast over Station N. I. X. You know Paul Blanchard is radio operator there. That program is sponsored by your Steamship Lines, isn't it, Eddie?

Niciejewski: Well, do you want to hear the news?

Young: We've been everywhere from Japan to Africa and Europe.

Niciejewski: We bumped into Romeiko at the World's Fair in Paris. She is the reigning queen at the fair.

THE PINKERTON CRITIC

---

Young: And whom do you suppose we saw in Africa? We went through Capetown and saw Joe Meakim preparing to go into upper Uganda as missionary to the natives.

Myatt: I wonder if there are cannibals up there?

Barrington: (To Gundell) Have you heard from Jean Hubbard?

Niciejewski: Oh, we ran into her at Atlantic City. She was representing "New England" in a beauty contest.

Young: Say, folks! Do you remember that flair Bill Smith had for raising pigs? Well, we saw him at the World's Fair with his prize pig. They're the best developed pigs in the world. His sausage factory business has increased so that he ships sausages to Alaska, South Africa, and Venezuela.

Niciejewski: Yes, and Bill Torrey and Earl Warren wanted to be remembered to the gang. They are playing International League Baseball in Hong Kong.

Gundell: Well, we've heard from nearly all of the gang haven't we, Dot?

Myatt: (Checking list) What have you heard from Bob Tangney?

Young: Why, haven't you heard? We saw him thumbing in France. He has just been elected one of the Knights of the Road.

Barrington: Have you been traveling around the U. S. or did you just dock?

Niciejewski: Oh, we docked yesterday in N. Y., and looked Althea Sweet up at the Dating Bureau. She arranged for our escorts and we went to the Metropolitan Opera and saw Margaret Taintor starring in "Aida."

Myatt: I always thought she would make the opera. By the way, Betty, I hear you want your script for your next character part typed. Do you think I could do it?

Gundell: Certainly! Since you won the typing tournament, you ought to be able to do it. I've got to get back to rehearsals immediately.

(Exit Myatt and Gundell)

Barrington: Heavens! What time it is? I have an appointment at 4:00 to inspect a new site for my Howard-Johnson ice cream parlor. Bye!

(Exit)

Young: Well, see you later. Stan and I are continuing our travels.

Niciejewski: See you later, Eddie.

Allgeyer: Well, they're "gone with the wind," and I guess if no one is going to stay with me, I had better get back to Arlene and my Park Avenue mansion.

CLASS WILL

We, the Class of 1937, members of Pinkerton Academy situated on a hill in Derry Village, County of Rockingham, State of New Hampshire, United States of America, on the North American continent, in the Western Hemisphere, on the planet Earth, far from dead and very much alive, and possessors of the five senses, and about to leave this institution of education, hereby do give and bequeath our enviable and worthwhile possessions.

Art. 1. I, Ruth Corliss, leave to Johnny Ralston the privilege of taking a load of Chiselers home from school every day. If you charge them, you'll be a rich man soon.

Art. 2. I, Norton Bagley, will devise and bequeath my right to tell Miss Billings that she is late for Critic meeting (and she always is) to Raymond Ainsworth. Be avaricious, Ray, but do it in a diplomatic way.

Art. 3. I, Frederick Draper, will and bequeath my mountain climbing equipment to one who will find the going "Pleasant." A certain Junior boy may be interested.

Art. 4. I, Amelia Romeiko, will my speed record (in the mornings) to Leon Wells. Remember, Leon, it is better late than never.

Art. 5. I, Marion Morrison, hereby will and bequeath my ability as cheer leader to Edith Gedney. Remember Edith, it's best to begin with "Hep! Hep!"

Art. 6. I, Peter Young, do will, devise, and bequeath my formula for rapid growth to Bernard Boisvert, Class of 1940.

Art. 7. I, Woodrow Grant, will my fondness for "Olives" to whom it may concern. Be careful, and remember—some "Olives" have hearts of stone.

Art. 8. I, Gerry Westgate, do hereby will and bequeath my sense of humor to Charlie Myatt. You've got a good start already, Chuck!

Art. 9. I, Althea Sweet, do will and bequeath my gift of two-timing to Pauline Senecal. You may be able to get away with more than I did.

Art. 10. We, the Derry Village Trio, Jean, Gail, and Olive, leave our attempted sophistication to on-coming Derry Village students. You may benefit by the word "dignity."

Art. 11. I, Marion Holm, leave my ability to blush to Arline Duvarney. Remember Arline, it pays to act bashful sometimes!

Art. 12. I, Stanley Niciejewski, do hereby will my ability to get by without studying to whoever can keep up to my standard of "Work Not Done." Consider the leisure time you'll have.

Art. 13. We, the Senior Class, will and bequeath our ability to play "Chop Sticks" on the piano to the on-coming classes. Remember it's one of our privileges!

Art. 14. We, the Lettermen of the Senior Class, do will and bequeath our stellar achievements in the field of athletics to future Senior Lettermen.

Art. 15. I, Vaughn Stevens, do hereby will and bequeath my 'Rubinoff' abilities to Sammy Gelt. Remember Sammy, even Jack Benny had to learn to play "The Bee."

Art. 16. I, Dick Dalton, will my ability as a "Sawyer" to anyone who has a little interest in that line. Remember, it's a good trade.

Art. 17. I, Harold Gurley, will my unbeatable 'come to me' characteristics to Wilbur Fav. Hang on to it, Wilbur, it comes in handy.

Art. 18. I, Edward Allgeyer, will my Buick and accessory to any likely young "Ladd." Remember, special equipment doesn't come with every Buick.

Art. 19. I, Clement Boulanger, will the pleasure I get in caring for spring chickens to Basil Morin. Good judgment comes with experience, Basil.

Art. 20. I, John Devine, will my yodeling voice to Minerva Ham. Guard it well,

THE PINKERTON CRITIC

---

Minerva, and yodel your way to happiness as I have.

Art. 21. I, Doris Johnson, will and bequeath my liking for good "Holmes" to any person who shows appreciation in interior decorating. That's why I took Home Economics.

Art. 22. I, Irene Keith, will and bequeath my general knowledge of the anatomy of cows to Betty Bell. Don't make the same mistake I did, Betty.

Art. 23. I, Betty Gundell, will my fluttering movements to Bernard Broes. You can't help being noticed.

Art. 24. I, Lucille Parker, will and bequeath my curly hair to Virginia Smith. "Vanity, thy name is woman." Perhaps some of the rest of us may have a chance to use the mirror now.

Art. 25. I, Marjorie Clark, do will and bequeath my monopoly on Ross' Corner to whoever believes she can undertake the task. It's quite a "holding company."

Art. 26. To Mr. Bell, we leave our sincere appreciation for everything he has done for us during our four years at Pinkerton.

We do firmly assure this to be the last will and statement of the outgoing Senior Class of 1937, Pinkerton Academy, Derry Village, New Hampshire, on this eighteenth day of June in the year of our Lord, Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-Seven.

PRESENTATION OF THE SPADE

On behalf of the Class of 1939, I take great pleasure in presenting to you, the Class of 1940, this spade. And we do so in the hope that you will dig in, uphold the ideals and traditions of Pinkerton, and carve a place for yourself as we have tried to do during the past year.

May you reach your goal!

Frank O'Neil '39

ACCEPTANCE OF THE SPADE

On behalf of the Freshman Class of 1940, I take great pleasure in receiving this spade, which has been handed down for so many years to the Freshman Class.

I am sure the Class of 1940 will try to live up to the standards which have been symbolized by it.

SALUTATORY

As salutatorian of the class of 1937, I have the privilege of welcoming you, our parents, friends and helpers, to the graduation exercises of the class of 1937.

We can not, as did the Sibyl of ancient days, peer into the future and enlighten ourselves upon the events to come. As with the storm-tossed Trojans in Virgil's lay, we find our prophecies written upon leaves and when we try to read them, the gust of our ambition blows them away. However, we may be sure that whatever success we may obtain in later years, will be the result in a measure, of our four years in Pinkerton.

O Pinkerton, we hail thee,
Facing the eastern light;
We'll strive for thee and praise thee—
For the red and for the white.
Fair is the sky above thee,
High are the circling hills;
Lovely the valleys 'neath thee
Joyous with murm'ring rills.

O Pinkerton, thy beauty
Rests not in outward arts;
But in the cherished duty
Of loyal, faithful hearts
Now we will lift thy standard,
Forth to the combat go;
Firm hearted, pressing forward
Conquering every foe.

O Pinkerton, our heart's shrine
Shelters the red and the white;
Pledge we to lift thine ensign
For truth and for the right.
May nothing base and baneful,
Darken its radiant hem;
May no dishonor shameful
Stain its fair name to men.

O Pinkerton, we'll cherish — —
Thy blessed name alway;
Ne'er shall thy glory perish,
Hail Pinkerton for aye!
Forth from thy walls we wander,
Forth into toil and strife;
Thy lessons wise we'll ponder
Thy counsels gird our life.

The ideals of Pinkerton are embodied in this hymn. How many times in the last four years have we sung with great enthusiasm these words. To us they were our aim; they were that for which we were fighting.

THE PINKERTON CRITIC

---

"O Pinkerton, we hail thee —" yes, Pinkerton we hail thee now as those who have climbed the ladder of endeavor within your walls.

"O Pinkerton, thy beauty —" the worth of an institution, the full value of a thing cannot be measured by its looks. True, we are proud of Pinkerton's outward appearance, for what school looks so majestic and awe-inspiring as our own with its ivy covered walls, but more than that, the sense of unity within the walls is most commendable. School spirit, yes, that's it. As one we would have failed; together, we have upheld Pinkerton's lofty traditions.

"O Pinkerton, our hearts' shrine —" there are things that remain forever as desires of the heart. Our zeal for keeping up to the great standards of truth and right learned at Pinkerton will keep on throughout the years.

"O Pinkerton, we'll cherish —" we shall regret leaving Pinkerton, yet we will always cherish its fond memories.

A school but reflects the community from whence it springs. We are proud of our school—and as proud members of the class of 1937, we extend to you, townspeople of Derry and friends a warm welcome.

Norton Bagley

THE OPEN DOOR

With the eagerly anticipated day of graduation, there is a great happiness and joy which is interlaced with a certain amount of sadness and restlessness. To many, this feeling of restlessness is due to the fact that for the first time in life, we are confronted with a problem and decision which only we can decide; the problem being: What shall we do?

Beyond this vast door which stands open before us, lies the future which, by one careless thought, may be perpetually determined, good or bad. We, as youths, are forced to consider with careful attention many things unknown to us before.

There always have been and will be in life opportunities to be challenged, and in this so-called modern world of improved science, there are unlimited opportunities for the alert and ambitious youth which, if encountered at the right time, open up countless fields of success. On the other hand, crime and vice are so attractively disguised that one may be enticed into their midst before realizing the hold they have fastened upon one.

Along with this, there are many other temptations which we must sacrifice for success. But what is success without happiness and how can we win happiness by foul play? These are to be gained little by little and step by step for: "Happiness is like false money; it passes for a time as well as the true, and serves some ordinary occasions; but when it is brought to the touch, we find the lightness and alloy, and feel the loss."

With a set goal in life and an abundance of perseverance, ever-mindful that success and happiness must have truth for a foundation, we can't lose. But whatever decision is made, or whatever course is taken, Time, the great leveler, eventually will place us in the niche to which we are fitted and we will fulfill our part in the scheme of life which we now enter through the "open door" on Commencement Day.

Marjorie Clark.

VALEDICTORY

Our final moments together can now be numbered. With unerring precision the hands of the clock move forward to the hour of benediction. After that there will be good wishes, partings, tears. But I am privileged to say farewell before that hour, to speak to you all as to one person, and indirectly to each one of your unlike personalities. What I have to say is for all of you to hear; the individual thoughts that may be born in your minds by my words, are my personal messages to you.

The past upon which we are now thinking has been a period of trial and error, of experience and discovery, the cradle of development from which will be brought forth the potential futures of each one of us. It is fitting, therefore, that our concern be toward the future and the successes desired by each one of us.

We have experienced here together the forming of friendships. Friendships of such varying quality that we can depend upon only a few of them to be lasting comradeships. The realization of this is perhaps the reason for our distress at parting, which we cannot clearly analyze, but distinctly feel. For parting to most of us will seem a finality, a severing of actualities upon which we have based our happiness—the disruption of our class in whose unity we have been able to accomplish much.

But parting is not a finality. The veracity of this statement will present itself to you without delay, for memory is stronger than disappointment and will be a constant foundation upon which to value later contacts. In another sense, parting is a new beginning, a commencement, the point in life where we must put into practice the theories formed here from impressions and experiences, and do so with more in the balance than mere scholastic success. It is the commencement of maturity when the ripened fruit is plucked from the bough to be put to its particular use in the function of the world. But once the stem of contact is broken it is up to each one of us to grade, value, and sell ourselves to the proper environment for the greatest attainment of life.

Mr. Bell, it is my belief that you have helped us to that end, that you have tried to prepare us for the actualities and sternnesses of life, and the social requirements that mark a man sooner than his ability.

Faculty members, we are proud to have had your guidance through these four years. The personal services are those whose values will be more prominent later on; there are many of those for us to remember.

A school is not a complete institution without the support and interest of the parents and friends who are to be its judges. We are indeed grateful for the concern you have shown that has spurred us to greater effort.

And now, members of the class of 1937, we have reached the end of our road together. Some may turn right, to success in immediate service; some, left, to financial success and leadership; some may continue straight ahead to higher education. The choice of road will not determine the better man, but the amount of himself that he will have given to the world when he reaches the end of his road. I bid you farewell, but greet as well those future personalities that shall grace the world.

“THE PATSY”

On the evening of March 16, 1937, “The Patsy” made her debut, and what a debut it was! A colorful evening, filled to the brim with side-splitting comedy and delicately tinged with romance, was the reward of the many who braved the stormy evening to see it.

The play, written by Barry Connors and directed by Miss Marian Billings, succeeded in bringing to light the exceptional talent of the following members of the Junior Class:

Wilfred Lee
Lucille Morrison
Doris Wilson
Antoinette Pieroni
Lois Wilson
Leonard Gonye
Raymond Ainsworth
Henry Pelky
Samuel Gelt
